RECIPE FOR THEFT FROM HIGH OFFICE

“by pen and gavel from high perches”

Take TWO crazy unlawful Order on Motion for Sanctions for $62,885 and $125,770

Forge, fudge, and finagle “This judgment rendered” – just above each signature

Promote, pass, palm, and peddle each to the district clerk – as a bona fide judgment

Thus create, connive, and convert each into abstract of judgment

(Never mind this makes for a world record THREE judgments in ONE case)

Carefully file each abstract with the county clerk to “appropriate a nonpossessory interest in property” (i.e. judgment liens)

Sec. 31.03. THEFT. (a) A person commits an offense if he unlawfully appropriates property with intent to deprive the owner of property.

Sec. 31.01(4) THEFT. “Appropriate” means: (A) to bring about the transfer or purported transfer of title to or other nonpossessory interest in property, whether to the actor or another; or

Epilogue

To be honest – only in the process of turning this into another of my YouTube – did it strike me just how simple this really is. I always knew it was “theft by gavel” – but I did not know - that it so perfectly fit the simple language of the Texas Penal Code – especially the all-encompassing “nonpossessory interest in property”

The unanswered question, of course, is WHY these ‘thems’ would engage in such – lest they believed or knew they could get by doing such – and why NO ONE would stop them.

DOCUMENTS at my DamnCourthouseCriminals.com. Also my earlier “less visual” - but more encompassing and extemporaneous OpenJustice.US.

and a special blessing

To all the ‘thems’ that did this – and all the other ‘thems’ that let them:
